>Hello Folks,
> I've just recently gotten my first vintage radio(s), but I've been >perusing older QSTs for several years. One thing that has always intrigued >me are the ads that Hallicrafters ran for their contest in 1951 and 1952.
> For those of you who haven't seen them, it basically went like >this. The first ten Novices who upgraded to General or Conditional class >and worked all 48 states got a Hallicrafters S-76 receiver. All other >Novices who upgraded and worked all states got $25 in cash (this was 45 >years ago!). The contest period was from Sept 8, 1951 to Sept 7, 1952. All >QSOs Novice or otherwise counted during the period (you didn't have to >upgrade first).
> Anyone out there who participated? How hard was it to work all >states and get QSLs in the early fifties? Have any other companies done >anything like this since?

>I have been asking for old rad am hndbks.
>So now I have some. but they are too new. I have >1969 1972 1977-& 1976. All are full of solid state stuff(cry cry cry).
>I am willing to trade 2 for 1 or ever 3 for 1 to get a 1960 or older radio am hndbook.
>Just cant build solid state projects( I tried one it was a mess). I did get one 1960 handbook > and It had lots of good tube stuff in it. So pse lets do some trading, >but I cant use anything newer than 1959. that way I can continue to build my ancient station.
>all the books are in fine shape with good bindings. pse email your answers.
